Liberal appropriations for public works in the District of Columbia are advocated by Gen. Bixby, chief of engineers, in his annual report to the Secretary of War, made public today.

The existing project for the improvement of the Potomac river at Washington, he says, was adopted August 2, 1892, and has for its object the improvement of the navigation of the river by widening and deepening its channels, the reclamation of the flats by depositing on them the material dredged from the channels; the freeing of the Washington channel of sewage and the establishment of harbor lines at Alexandria and Washington. The estimated cost of the improvement as revised in 1907 is $2,933,020. The amount expended on the work to June 30, 1910, was $2,814,089.75, of which $501,235.40 has been applied to maintenance since March 3, 1890.

Improvement of Potomac.

The expenditure resulted in obtaining the following dimensioned channels by dredging: Virginia channel, 4 miles long, about 500 feet wide and 20 feet deep; Washington channel, 2½ miles long, a 400-foot width to a depth of 20 feet and a 250-foot width to a depth of about 12 feet; in dredging the Potomac to a depth of 8 feet over its entire area (111 acres); in fully reclaiming the upper and partially reclaiming the lower half of Potomac Park with the dredged material; in completing the inlet and outlet gates; in constructing 35,524 linear feet of sea wall around the reclaimed area, and rebuilding 14,196 linear feet thereof; in building 5,965 linear feet of training dike containing about 21,218 cubic yards of riprap; and in removing dangerous rocks from the Georgetown harbor.

The entire project is now about 90 per cent completed. The area of land reclaimed and partially reclaimed by these operations is 628 acres (including reservoir 730 acres), which by act of March 3, 1897, was declared to be a public park, under the name of Potomac Park. The upper part of this park having been completed was turned over to the office of public buildings and grounds, and subsequently was developed by that office, says Gen. Bixby, into one of the most beautiful parks of this country.

The work on the project during the year consisted in making additional sea walls and in completing the construction of the combined inlet gates and bridge for the reservoir.

The maximum draft that could be carried June 30, 1910, at mean low water over the shoalest part of the Washington channel was 21 feet and of the Virginia channel, 18 feet.

Commerce of Washington.

The principal articles of commerce are sand and gravel, coal, lumber, ice, cord wood, stone, oysters, bricks, coke and general merchandise. The receipts and shipments during 1909 amounted to about 701,907 short tons, and were estimated to be worth about $11,552,419. Gen. Bixby says the benefits to navigation from the improvement have been marked. Vessels of much deeper draft than those formerly used are now engaged in this trade, and it is understood that freight rates have been materially reduced.

Gen. Bixby says that the amount required to complete the project, exclusive of the unexpended balance, is $457,782, and that $300,000 is required for the purpose of extension of benefits and for the maintenance of the improvement in a serviceable condition.

Gen. Bixby says that the project for the improvement of the Potomac river below Washington has been completed, and that no further appropriation is required. It is estimated that $56,000 is required for the completion of the project for the improvement of the river at Alexandria, Va.

Aqueduct Bridge Condemned.

Gen. Bixby refers to the gradual deterioration of the Aqueduct bridge over the Potomac and says that while the repairs made to the piers may prolong their life to a certain extent, it is believed to be only a question of time when they will reach a stage beyond repair. He submits estimates for three plans for

LET YOUR STOMACH HAVE ITS OWN WAY.

Do Not Try to Drive and Force It to Work When It Is Not Able or You Will Suffer All the More.

You cannot treat your stomach as some men treat a balky horse; force, drive or even starve it into doing work at which it rebels. The stomach is a patient and faithful servant and will stand much abuse and ill treatment before it "balks," but when it does you had better go slow with it and not attempt to make it work. Some people have the mistaken idea that they can make their stomachs work by starving themselves. They might cure the stomach that way, but it would take so long that they would have to use the stomach when they got through. The sensible way out of the difficulty is to let the stomach rest if it wants to and employ a substitute to do its work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do the work of your stomach for you and digest your food just as your stomach used to when it was well. You can prove this by putting your food in a glass jar with one of the tablets and sufficient water and you will see the food digested in just the same time as the digestive fluids of the stomach would do. The tablets being digested by the stomach satisfy both your mind and body take one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating—eat all that you want—and you will feel in your mind that your food is being digested. Because you will feel no disturbance or weight in your stomach; in fact, you will forget all about having a stomach, just as you did when you were a healthy boy or girl.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act in a natural way because they contain only the natural elements of the gastric juices and other digestive fluids of the stomach. It makes no difference what condition the stomach is in, they go right ahead of their own accord and do their work. They know their business and surrounding conditions. They are not forced to do anything. They relieve the weak stomach of all its burdens and give it its much-needed rest and permit it to become strong and healthy.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. They are so well known and their popularity is so great that a druggist would as soon think of selling out alcohol or opium as of these. In fact, physicians are prescribing them all over the land, and if your own doctor is real honest with you he will tell you frankly that there is nothing so good for dyspepsia as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

remedying existing conditions, as follows: For complete present bridge and replacing it with a new one, including new superstructure, $500,000. For complete present bridge and replacing it with a new one, including new superstructure, $500,000. For complete present bridge and replacing it with a new one, including new superstructure, $500,000.

C. For thoroughly and permanently repairing the remaining five old piers and so that the bridge will be a permanent structure, $150,000. It is recommended, says Gen. Bixby, "that this matter be brought to the attention of Congress with a view to the adoption of one of the projects mentioned above, any one of which would become a substantial and stable structure, without the present liability of being rendered unstable in one or more of the old piers by the natural action of the stones from the piers during an unusually heavy freshet. A possible objection to the project of rebuilding the bridge is that it might detract from the appearance of the bridge. It is suggested, therefore, that the proper committee of Congress might consider the construction of fine arts, established by act of the second session, Sixty-first Congress, to render an opinion.

Anacostia River Work.

The present project for the improvement of the Anacostia river was adopted June 13, 1902, and provides for the improvement of the portion of the river between the mouth of the Potomac and the mouth of the Anacostia, by dredging the channel to a depth of 8 feet over its entire area (111 acres); in fully reclaiming the upper and partially reclaiming the lower half of Potomac Park with the dredged material; in completing the inlet and outlet gates; in constructing 35,524 linear feet of sea wall around the reclaimed area, and rebuilding 14,196 linear feet thereof; in building 5,965 linear feet of training dike containing about 21,218 cubic yards of riprap; and in removing dangerous rocks from the Georgetown harbor.

WOMAN EXHORTS CROWD WHILE HER BARN BURN

Eccentric Widow Pleads With People Attracted by Fire to Live Righteously.

NEWBURY, N. Y., November 28.—While a crowd of people gathered to see her barns burn, Mrs. Campbell exhorted the crowd which was attracted by the blaze to leave wickedness and follow the path of righteousness.

"If you people were where you should be—in church," she said earnestly but with no trace of anger, "you would not be here idly looking at a fire. If you had your children where you should have them—in church—with you—there would be no fire. You ought to have them in church. An hour in Sunday school is no good. I used to think Sunday school, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A. and Epworth League were the miseries of the church. Now I know they are pulling it down."

Engaged in Philanthropy.

Mrs. Campbell is a rich and eccentric widow. She owns a large amount of property, supports many crippled children and educates them, and her house is the refuge of the unfortunate. This afternoon she asserted that the fire which destroyed her barns had been started by enemies. This is the third time it was done, she said.

Asked if she had any insurance, Mrs. Campbell said:

"No, Providence has saved us from danger three times and will do so again."

Her buildings are placarded with extracts from the Bible.

WOLGAST WILLING TO FIGHT.

Will Give Moran Match if He Can Name Terms.

CADILLAC, Mich., November 28.—Ad Wolgast, champion lightweight pugilist of the world, today declared he was willing to meet Owen Moran, who defeated Battling Nelson at San Francisco, next May if he were insured $12,500 and was permitted to name the referee.

When told that Moran had whipped Nelson, from whom he (Wolgast) won the belt, Wolgast said:

"The fight went as I expected and as I had hoped. Moran is a good fighter and a worthy opponent. I am willing to meet him in the spring, preferably in May, if he agrees to my terms. These are that I have $12,500 for my appearance in the ring, win or lose, and more if the gate receipts warrant. I also must name the referee."

Wolgast has established permanent training quarters at Lake Mitchell, where he is working daily to keep in condition.
